Employees must take the following actions.

B Enrollees Who Continue Their Current Enrollment

Employees who want to continue enrollment in their current FEHB plan should check to ensure their current plan is available for 2013, check the premium amount, and check any plan changes. However, enrollees must enroll in a different plan to continue FEHB coverage in 2013, if their plan:

- will not be participating in the FEHB Program after December 31, 2012 (Exhibit 2)
- is reducing their service area and terminating enrollment codes (Exhibit 2).

Note: See Exhibit 2 for a list of plans and codes with significant changes or that are terminating.

C Continuing FEHB Coverage After Retirement

To continue FEHB coverage after retirement, employees must have been continuously enrolled, or covered as a family member, under the FEHB Program for either of the following:

- 5 years immediately before retirement
- if less than 5 years, for all service since the employee was eligible for these benefits, unless these requirements are waived.

D Dependent Coverage Under Affordable Care Act

For more information on dependent eligibility, see <http://www.opm.gov/insure/health/eligibility/dependents.asp>.

5 Health Savings Account (HSA)

A Definition of HSA

HSA means tax-sheltered trust account that employees own to pay qualified medical expenses for themselves, their spouse, and their dependents. Employees may enroll in a high deductible health plan (HDHP) that determines whether employees are eligible for an HSA or health reimbursement arrangements, based on the information provided.

Note: For more information on HSA's, see <http://www.opm.gov/insure/health/hsa/>.

B HSA Features

HSA features include the following:

- administration by a trustee/custodian
- employee-owned HSA that is theirs to keep even if they change plans or retire
- tax-free interest
- tax-free withdrawals for qualified medical expenses
- unused funds and interest that are carried over, without limit, from year to year
- voluntary contributions that are tax-deductible.

C HSA Benefits

HSA plans may save the employee money through lower premiums, tax savings, and money deposited in their account that may be used to pay the deductible and other out-of-pocket medical expenses in current or future years.

6 FSAP

A Definition of FSAP

FSAP means a tax-favored program that allows employees to set aside pretax money from their paychecks to pay for a variety of eligible expenses. Eligible employees may choose to make a voluntary allotment from their salary their FSAP during the Open Season.

Employees:

- do not pay employment taxes on FSAP allotments
- shall communicate and enroll directly with the FSAP Administrator, ADP Benefits Services KY, Inc. by either of the following:
 - access the web site at <http://www.fsafeds.com>
 - telephone at 877-372-3337.

FSAP contributions must come from an employee's salary through allotments.

Because of the tax advantages of FSAP's IRS has strict guidelines for their use. One of these guidelines is commonly known as the "use or lose" rule. According to this rule, if an employee has not incurred enough eligible expenses during the benefit year to equal the annual amount contributed to FSAP, the employee loses the balance remaining in the accounts when the benefit year ends.

Employees who are unfamiliar with FSAP benefits and risks are strongly urged to consult with their accountant, tax advisor, or tax preparer before electing FSAP or benefit amount. FSAP contributions do not count toward the IRS yearly maximum, nontaxable contribution limit. OPM's FSAP web site:

- is <http://www.opm.gov/insure>
- provides overall program information.

Note: Employees may enroll and file claims with ADP Benefits Services KY, Inc. by either of the following:

- access the web site at <http://www.fsafeds.com>
- telephone at 877-372-3337.

B FSAP Enrollment

Unlike FEHB or FEHB-PC, participation in FSAP is not automatic. Employees must make a voluntary election on an annual basis. If an employee does not make an election during the open enrollment, they will not have FSAP in the new benefit year. Employees need to make the following decisions:

- whether they want to have coverage in 1 or both of the FSAP accounts
- the annual amount to contribute to their FSAP.

C Eligibility

Any employee eligible for FEHB is eligible to enroll in FSAP. Employees do not need to be enrolled in FEHB to participate.

Note: An employee may not have HSA and FSAP at the same time.

Notice PM-2874

D Types of FSAP Accounts

The following two FSAP accounts are available to eligible employees that allow employees to pay either medical or dependent care expenses using pretax dollars:

- Health Care FSA
- Dependent Care FSA.

Eligible employees may choose to participate in either or both accounts. There are no Government contributions to FSAP. Employees are encouraged to review OPM’s “Frequently Asked Questions on FSAP” located at <https://www.fsafeds.com/fsafeds/SummaryOfBenefits.asp>.

7 FEDVIP

A Types of Enrollment

There are 3 types of enrollment available under FEDVIP. The following provides information on the enrollment types.

Types of Enrollment	Description
Self Only	Covers only the enrolled employee. An eligible employee may enroll in Self Only even though he or she has a family, but the family members are not covered.
Self Plus One	Covers the enrolled employee or annuitant plus 1 eligible family member. Eligible individuals may enroll in Self Plus One even though they have more than 1 eligible family member, but the additional family members are not covered. The enrollee must specify during the enrollment process which 1 eligible family member he or she wants to cover under Self Plus One. The enrollee may change the covered family member to another eligible family member during an Open Season or because of a qualifying life event. Note: Self Plus One is not available under the FEHB Program. FEHB law prohibits such a category.
Self and Family	Covers the enrolled employee and all eligible family members. Enrollees should list all eligible family members when they enroll through www.benefeds.com to ensure timely claim payments. All the enrollee’s eligible family members are automatically covered, even if the enrollee fails to list all of them when enrolling on www.benefeds.com but claim payments may be delayed for family members who were omitted.

B Eligible Employees

Federal and County Office employees are eligible to enroll in FEDVIP, if they are eligible to enroll in the FEHB Program. Employees do not need to be enrolled in FEHB, just meet the FEHB eligibility criteria to enroll in FEDVIP.

C How to Enroll

Employees must create a benefeds account by providing demographic and employment information at www.benefeds.com.

Note: The BENEFEDS web site contains an online tutorial, extensive online help, and a Frequently Asked Questions section to assist enrollees through the enrollment process.

D FEDVIP Versus FEHB

FEDVIP and FEHB are entirely separate programs. Some FEHB plans will:

- continue to offer coverage of some dental and vision services
- offer non-FEHB dental and vision services.

FEDVIP provides supplemental dental and vision insurance coverage. Some carriers participate in both FEHB and FEDVIP. Individuals eligible to enroll in both programs may choose to enroll in 1 of the following:

- FEHB only
- FEDVIP only
- both
- neither.

Note: Individuals eligible may choose different enrollment types for each program. An individual might, for example, be enrolled in FEHB Self and Family, but be enrolled in Self Only in FEDVIP.

E Re-Enrollment

Re-enrollment is automatic each year, unless an enrollee chooses to make a change during Open Season or a plan terminates its participation in FEDVIP. Employees are encouraged to view plan changes and premium changes during Open Season.

F Effective Date of Coverage

The effective date of FEDVIP coverage for 2013 is January 1, 2013.
